UFO

A MESSAGE FROM THE HEAVY MOB

UFO's new album is a bit of a shitkicker. It's called 'Lights Out'. And there's quite a few people out there who like it. Take NME. The man sums it all up by the three little words, 'Guaranteed brain damage'.

On to Sounds where among other things comes this little snippet. 'UFO can cut ice. They're heavy rock with melody, intelligence, ingenuity, and showmanship. They're not spectacularly great, they are powerful, professional, enjoyable, timeless, the sort of band you could see again and again.'

And '...The strongest UFO album to date.'

And finally, Record Mirror: 'The lights are going out over Europe again as the heavy metal brigade get blasted to pieces as UFO make a direct hit.'

There's not a lot else to say apart from Listen. The album's called 'Lights Out.' You're going to like it.
